Carmel Mourns Loss of Famed Woman Novelist

In the passing of Mary Austin, Carmel feels a personal loss. The imprint of her genius is still upon the village which, for a time in its impressionable years, was her home. Although Mrs. Austin gave up her residence here a score of years ago, her name has never been erased as one of Carmel's own people, and she was still more a part of the village than many who live here.

We have claimed her in pride and affection, have pointed to the house that was hers, and to the place where, in a pine tree, her aerie was built. Taos may have become her real home, but to us she was always a visitor there, and must sooner or later, come home to Carmel. Here she had written her greatest novels, and here had been first produced her best play, "Fire" with "The Arrowmaker," a year later. Mary Austin was an active and integral part of the Forest Theater, which she dreamed of before it became a reality, and in which her plays, under her personal direction, were given performance.

Mary Austin passed away at Taos, near Santa Fe, Monday afternoon while taking a nap. The cause is given as heart disease. She had always been a worker, her books were many, and covered a wide field. She had the ability for careful research to give authenticity, and she had the genius of making words sing as well as talk. She was one of America's greatest stylists. "The Land of Little Rain" will probably last and become a classic. It was her first book, and brought her out of the desert of Inyo county, and into a nation-wide fame more than thirty years ago.

Others of her many books are "The Basket Woman," "Insidro," "The Flock," "Santa Lucia," "Lost Borders," "Christ in Italy," "The Woman of Genius," "Love and the Soul Maker," "The Man Jesus," and "Starry Adventure." Of her plays, "The Arrowmaker," and "The Man Who Didn't Believe in Christmas" had Broadway, New York, productions. "Fire" has been played annually as an open-air drama at Palm Springs, California.

Mary Hunter Austin was sixty-five years old, and was born in Carlinville, Illinois. While she was a girl, the family moved to California, near Bakersfield. She married Stafford W. Austin of that city in 1891, and moved to Inyo county. She came to live in Carmel in 1906, and called this village her home in 1913, though she was frequently away on long visits to the East and abroad. She was one of the very first of the literary people to make Carmel home.

Council Undecided on A City Hall Location

The matter of a new city hall took most of the council's time in its three meetings on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings. Mayor James Thoburn stressed that if Carmel were to take advantage of the recently apportioned federal grant of $27,000 toward a public building, action must be rapid and yet carefully gauged to gain voters' approval at a bond issue.

"In any event," he said, "there will be opposition, but economy effected by putting the building on the west 50 feet of the city park on Block 69 might overcome this." It seemed to be the sentiment of the council that this was one of the best solutions in view of the fact that Carmel of late has been famous for voting down bond issues.

Over a dozen land owners however submitted offers for the city to purchase property, and Peter Mawdsley, real estate broker, contended that even with this added outlay the annual expense to taxpayers need not exceed present figures if the charges on sand dune bonds were continued instead of soon being retired, plus today's rentals on city hall and fire engine houses.

Mawdsley submitted ten offers for his clients, including that of Dr. Amelia L. Gates, 120 by 100 ft., comprising lots 16-18-20 in Block 58 at 6th and Mission, price $14,000; Mrs. E. K. DeSabla, at 6th and Junipero, lots 23-24-25-26 in Block 58; 160 by 100 ft., price $12,500; Mrs. Mary A. Goold, at Ocean and Junipero, all Block 68, 130 by 200 ft., at $18,000; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Burnham, at Dolores and 8th, lots 16-18-20, in Block 91, 120 by 100 feet, price $15,000; Mr. and Mrs. Byron G. Newell, Dolores and 8th, lots 15-17-19, Block 92, 120 by 100 ft., price $20,000; Mrs. Louise Hasty and Josephine Culbertson, 7th and Lincoln, lots 2 and 44, Block 92, 80 by 100 ft., price $20,000.

Mawdsley also submitted land of M. J. Murphy in Block 78, fronting the park on the south across Ocean Avenue. 125 feet square, on the east side, price $20,000; in the same block, 125 by 200 ft., on the 7th Street side, $16,000, or either half of this portion at $8,000; at Torres and 6th, lots 19-23-25, Blk. 59, 120 by 100 ft., price $5,500. All prices of Mawdsley's without improvements.

Abbie L. McReavy submitted at 6th and San Carlos lots 13-17-19, Block 56, price $16,500; lots 17-19, same block, $12,500; lots 13-15-17, same block $9,500. Maude Hogel offered land at Mountain View and Junipero, lots 2-3-4-5, Block 88, at $8,000. The Presbyterian Church offered 80 by 100 feet at 8th and Dolores, in Block 96, at $10,000.

No definite recommendation was made by the council as a whole on either city or private property as a location, nor whether the fire house would be in the proposed city hall building, nor what the total outlay might be. Another meeting tomorrow morning at 11:30 will go into the matter further.

A motion was made that all letters and records pertaining to the city hall matter be kept on file in the office of City Clerk Saidee Van Brower.

cil decided it could not give finan-

Among minor affairs, the council help to the local art gallery, nor improve a sidewalk to it with city funds. It was moved that the city favor Wm. Crabbe's request for a temporary bandstand at the Soldiers' Fountain on Ocean and San Carlos for free music and tabloid dramas during the Fiesta. Considerable unofficial criticism was given the commercial "Spanish" decorations on downtown streets, and adjournment following discussions on various small civic improvements.

STREETS TO BE SWEPT DAILY DURING FIESTA

Street Superintendent Joseph Burge plans to keep Carmel thoroughfares swept every day so that the city may present a spick and span appearance to Fiesta visitors. Likewise, unnecessary chuckholes will be mended.

The public is asked to co-operate by not throwing papers promiscuously, and in cleaning up private property that adjoins heavily traveled streets.

If possible, Burge adds, Santa Lucia will be oiled before the crowds arrive.

For the past week Elizabeth Houghton has had as her house guest Betty Hotaling of Pasadena.

Final Concert of Penha Quartet Next Tuesday

The third Carmel Carmel Music Society Summer Series comes to a brilliant and triumphant conclusion next Tuesday evening, August 21, with the Penha Piano Quartet. Messrs. Penha, Linsley, Norman and Weiss thrilled their listeners in the final open quartet rehearsal of the season last Tuesday evening, and the foretaste of this final program of Mozart, Hindemith and Chausson met with spirited response.

A surprise and delightful feature of the program is the appearance of Abraham Weiss in Hindemith's Sonata for Viola alone. Paul Hindemith, one of the younger group of German composers, belonging to the ultra-modern school, was born in 1895 in Hanau. He is a viola player himself, as well as being one of the finest and most outstanding of the young group of modern composers. The Sonata, like all of Hindemith's works, is in the modern idiom—now mathematically strict. now wild, violant, crash,—now slow, poignantly meditative, with depth of feeling. The tones of Mr. Weiss's viola sing out with a sweetness and tenderness in this last movement as only such an artist on such an instrument could evoke.

The Mozart, with its superb piano part, which gives Mr. Linsley full opportunity for his apparently inexhaustible powers, is a masterpiece of writing, a work of pure genius such as only Mozart could write.

The Chausson Quartet, with which the program and the season come to a close, is fitting climax. This Quartet might aptly be named the "Viola Quartet," as the viola is given a plaintive, moving melody, which now and again appears, giving the dramatic, powerful work a mysterious quality that fascinates.

Mr. Arne Anderson who has spent the summer in Carmel left on Tuesday for his home in Palo Alto.

HOWARD RESIGNS AS HEAD OF THE SANITARY BOARD

The Carmel Sanitary Board of Trustees has received the resignation of its chairman, Frederick P. Howard, and forwarded this to Governor Frank Merriam, through the Secretary of State, with the recommendation that it be accepted.

It was early this year that the entire board of trustees resigned, consisting of F. P. Howard, A. T. Shand, Hugh Comstock, Willard Whitney and Dr. J. B. McCarthy, following defeat at the polls of the $80,000 bond issue proposed by them to install a modern sewage disposal plant in place of the inadequate one at the river mouth.

The governor later reappointed them, and they have been endeavoring to evolve a project that would meet with state sanitary requirements and yet not be overwhelmed at the polls in another election. Howard's election as chairman followed the reappointment in May.

BOOK STALL TO BE ATTRACTION AT FAIR

The Antiquarian Book Stall is to be one of the attractions of the Carmel Village Fair to be held on the grounds of the Forest Theatre August 31 and September 1.

We hope to have a large assortment of books, magazines, framed or unframed pictures, games, puzzles, bric-a-brac, etc. If every family in Carmel will furnish us one book that they have read and would like to pass on to some one else, and, again, if one member of every household would come to our stall and buy one book we ought to be able to turn over a neat sum to the committee that is working so hard to make the Carmel Village Fair a success. Remember that a book that has no value for you may be greatly treasured by some one else.

If you have books or articles suitable for our stall kindly leave them at 506 Camino Real or telephone 846W and they will be called for.—Mrs. Karl G. Rendtorff.

REYNOLDS TRAFFIC CASE IS DISMISSED

Last week Stephen Allen Reynolds, Carmel free-lance editor and adventure author, was dismissed from city court by Judge George Wood on a charge of reckless driving growing out of a collision between his motor car and that of Miss Molly Gibbons, also of Carmel, earlier in the week at the dangerous intersection of Carmelo and 7th Street.

Reynolds pleaded not guilty and testified that he was proceeding uphill on 7th Street and that his car was unable to go at a dangerous rate of speed under such conditions, which testimony was supported by Carl Harris, garageman whose knowledge of the car qualified him as an expert witness.

Charles Guth, traffic officer, testified as to marks left by the machines both before and after they collided, and James L. Cockburn, who lives at the corner and happened to be an eyewitness, gave additional statments.

Miss Gibbons was charged with crossing an other intersection too fast just a moment before the accident, and was dismissed with a warning from the Judge.

Housing Committee Wants Listing of Accommodations

Donald Hale, chairman of the ing Committee, urges that owners Serra Fiesta and Pageant Hous- of all types of housing facilities on the peninsula list the same at the headquarters on Dolores Street in Carmel, at the Monterey Chamber of Commerce, or at the Pacific Grove Chamber of Commerce.

This means any available space in private nomes, auto camps, apartments, hotels, cottages and boarding houses, or in short any facilities where visitors may be accommodated during the Serra celebration from the 24th to 28th, and on through Labor Day, or any part of that period.

Each person submitting facilities will be asked to give full information as to type, size, location, telephone number and expected rental. Committee services will be freely given in connection with rooms in private homes. Rental agents are asked to avail themselves of the listings made at these three housing headquarters, and also to list their own accommodations at the same time.

Hale emphasizes the fact that this service is not intended in any way to conflict with services rendered by recognized agents, but rather is an effort to cooperate with and facilitate their services.

The spirit of the Serra celebration is one of historic and widespread hospitality, and the impressions gained this year will make or break future continuations of the event. Prices must be kept well within reason whether for housing arrangements, food, tickets or auto parking, and certainly in this respect a most agreeable welcome to peninsula guests may be shown.

MANY GROUPS ASK FOR USE OF SCHOOL ROOMS

Minor problems only came before the Sunset School Board of Trustees on Tuesday evening at the regular meeting. Several requests for use of rooms in the school were presented, including one from the Forest Theater for the kitchen in connection with the Fair to be given at the end of the month; by the Serra Fiesta and Pageant Committee for the auditorium for rehearsing large groups; and by the Old Age Pension speakers, this time emphatically not for promoting any political candidate such as occurred last time.

The Misses Denny and Watrous desired the auditorium for two dates during the Fiesta to present Spanish dancers working in cooperation with the Fiesta, and arrangements will be made to accomplish this end.

There was discussion on the added burden to janitors of continual movement of folding chairs, developed through use of them by various groups in different parts of the buildings, and it was suggested by the board that janitor fees be included as part of the expenses charged to such groups.

PENINSULA DRUM CORPS TIES FOR FIRST IN S. F.

The Monterey Peninsula American Legion Post No. 41 sent its Drum and Bugle Corps to the state convention at San Francisco the first of this week in high hopes that it could repeat its winning of first place two years ago. Tuesday morning found the judges in a quandry as to what to do, as the Corps and the Corning Corps had tied for frist place at 97.5 points out of a possible hundred.

Carmel Valley Ranch 160 Acres For $1,500

This is not farming land, but it is a most marvelous site for a hunting-lodge; a real vacation place.

The well built cabin of one room 16 by 18 feet is placed under huge live oaks, with handsome sycamores close by.

The acres run up over a low hill, dips down into a ravine, and then up a real mountain. Back of that mountain is timber. Deer slip down to the cabin at night, rabbits hunt cover close by, mountain lion just over the first grade. This property is not far from the National Forest Reserve. Elevation about 3,000 feet.

The absurd price of less than $10. per acre for this property, if someone buys it soon.

"WOMEN HAVE THEIR WAY" IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By Hal Garrott

"The Women Have Their Way," a two-act drama playing an hour and a half including intermission, was presented by the Golden Bough Players last week end before a fair sized audience.

The setting, a sheltered patio to a home in Andalusia, by William Gaskin, was delightful. The furniture, the old tiled wall up stage, and the flowers offered a charming spot for dramatic action, had there been any. This Spanish play by the brothers Quintero is the most difficult type for amateurs. It is talkey. It's plot is a mere wraith that disappeared into thin air before the final curtain.

To save the piece something more than clever lines was needed. Swifter tempo might have raised the first act out of the doldrums, but one can't be sure. William Lingley, the lead, braced up a bit in Act II, but failed to take the stage in his first act scenes, when his lusterless voice seemed devoid of personality, and the pace set was decidedly somnolent. Restless fidgeting was audible in the audience.

Elton Connors as Don Julian, the priest, found a natural, relaxed tone in the first part of the second act when he spoke softly, but once he raised his voice the struggle to maintain an artificial accent proved strikingly obvious.

Georgia Wapple as Santita performed creditably, as did David Taylor as Pepe Lora. Barbara Collins, Frank Hefling, Marie Gordon did their best to put over this frothy piece, but apparently it just couldn't be done. However, Mary Liles as Juanita was lovely and decorously Spanish. Everett Mills' get-up as sacristan was a knock out. Charles Killian as a servant did his part, drunk or sober. Frances Baker and Onyet Watson were a tempting brace of misses, becomingly attired, and Vera Hunter proved a tuneful and lively maid. Vivian Plaice served adequately as village girl.

The play, however, was not well chosen. Even after such remarkable successes as Attorney at Law and Mother of Gregory one could hardly expect Edward Kuster, director, to be infallible. No one in the show business ever has been.

CALISTA ROGERS IN MODERN SONGS

Calista Rogers gave the third and last of her cycle of three song recitals in the Denny-Watrous Gallery last Friday. The program was devoted to recent composers, and Miss Rogers deserves credit for selecting such excellent examples of the best modern music has to offer.

In spite of its ultra-modern handicaps the recital proved the most interesting of the three. The singer let out her full voice, and the counterpunctal conflict between piano and voice, so well developed both by accompanist (Ralph Linsley) and the singer, was stimulating and refreshing to ears accustomed to the classical school.

Miss Rogers "got away" with her Schonberg numbers by singing them twice. Most popular with the audience was the Spanish group which ended the program. The Spanish still cling to the silly idea that music should be beautiful, melodic, and emotional rather than intellectual! The soloist graciously responded to an encore. Seldom has Carmel been favored with a series of concerts so high in educational value.

SHAKESPEAR'S TRIUMPHANT WOMEN AT GALLERY

Florence Locke, Shakespearian interpreter and Ellen Terry exponent, appears in the Denny-Watrous Gallery tomorrow evening, in what she has named "Shakespeare's Triumphant Women Pageant Recital".

Miss Locke comes to Carmel almost direct from a recital at Stanford University, where she appeared on Tuesday, and the Oakland Forum, where she gave "Shakespeare's Pathetic Women" on Monday.

She has given the same programs at Oxford, with the Viscountess Bryce in the chair, twice at the English Speaking Union in London, and once at Stratford-on-Avon on the occasion of the presentation of the Ellen Terry death mask to the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre. Three times she gave recitals at the Forum Club in London. This last winter she was asked to give the address on Shakespeare's birthday at the San Francisco English Speaking Union, choosing as her theme, "Shakespeare and Ellen Terry."

Edith Craig, the famous daughter of Ellen Terry, has taken great interest in Florence Locke's giving of the Ellen Terry lectures on Shakespeare's Women, and has loaned Miss Locke her mother's prompt books, notes, and sponsored the work in every way possible.

Florence Locke's aim is to give audiences in America the best in modern English literature, and especially the best in Shakespeare, and to give audiences in England all that is best in modern American works. In this she is being very successful and is receiving distinguished recognition here and abroad.

Her "Triumphant Women," which she is giving tomorrow night in the Gallery, is largely a framework for excerpts from Shakespeare. The "Daily Telegraph," London, wrote of it, "Miss Locke, as Beatrice, Rosalind, the Merry Wives, Virgilia and Portia, spoke the lines with a delicacy and a restrained intimacy which achieved the very maximum of effcet."

RUM CHASERS SPEND NIGHT IN HISTORIC CARMEL BAY

Destroying the old tradition that nothing but yachts or galleons should enter into Carmel Bay, two Coast Guard Cutters spent last Tuesday night in local waters. The two boats, are now looking among the many coves between Monterey and Point Conception to find some trace of a purse seiner supposedly lost somewhere between those two points a month ago. The two cutters which were in the bay at the same time, attracted the attention of a number of people on the beach. The powerful boats left Wednesday morning to continue the search.

"DUMB WIFF" ALL LOCAL CAST

An all-Peninsula caste has been selected for "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" which is to be produced at the Forest Theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, August 16, 17 and 18, in Carmel.

The parts in this delightful comedy by Anatole France are: The Judge, Herbert Heron; The Lawyer, Eugene Watson; The Doctor, Austin Reynolds; The Apothecary, Clay Otto; The Secretary, Grosvenor Winston; The Wife, Ellen Upshaw; The Maid, Phoebe Anne Neubauer; The Girl, Opal Jefferson; and many incidental and singing roles that make beautiful medieval stage pictures or add delightful tonal effects.

"A swinging, riotous thing," said one of the critics, "I want to see it again."

This and rapid comedy is worthy of Anatole France, the master craftsman. Although with a medieval setting that permits of artistic stage effects worthy of the traditions of Forest Theater, this comedy is thoroughly up-to-date in its social satire, for it is a satire of all times, of the high cost of being a husband, the servant problem, the fashions of yesterday and tomorrow and the loquacity of some of the ladies.

LEGION POST TO FORM HERE ON MONDAY NIGHT

All Carmel veterans who are eligible to join the new Carmel American Legion Post are urged to come to the official formation of this post next Monday, at 8 p. m. in the Manzanita Clubhouse on Dolores street between 8th and 9th.

Constitution and by-laws will be adopted; nights for meetings will be decided upon, and officers and an executive committee will be elected. Prospective members must be there in person so that the application for charter and payment of dues may be accomplished at that time.

The honor of becoming a charter member of Carmel Post is an important one, and it is predicted that upward to seventy-five members will affix their signatures to the roll. James Regan will be in the chair during the preliminary moves, and has spent a great deal of time in furthering the plan that will result in the new post.

EX-GOVERNOR YOUNG SPEAKS IN CARMEL

Ex-Governor C. C. Young addressed hearers at the city park Monday afternoon and stressed the need for wiping out the state deficit of $30,000,000, stating that if he were sent back to Sacramento as Governor he would attempt to do this in such a manner that the taxpayers would not suffer. Short term bonds at low interest rates, plus strict economy, would do this.

"California will be facing the most difficult four years in its history, and if you think that my record of an earlier four years in office is substantial enough to send me back there, I shall manage the state's business—your and my business—in the most efficient manner possible.

During his term, it will be remembered that he built up a surplus of $31,000,000.00. Remarking upon progress of the State Highway on our neighboring coast, but stressing that he never made pre-election promises nor political trades, he recalled the support that this region had given him in the past and asked for it at the polls on August 28th.

Miss Mary Saunders of Merced is in a cottage on Bayview for a two week period.

RE-ELECT ABBOTT, SHERIFF

If you have not already done so, you will be hearing charges made against Carl H. Abbott, sheriff of Monterey county, between now and election day. The Pine Cone has listened to them, as told by a candidate for the office Abbott fills, and has given them careful investigation. The charges are baseless, and are a malicious attempt to deceive the electorate of Monterey county.

Instead of being derelict in his official duties, Carl Abbott has made the best sheriff Monterey county has had for many years, and has brought to the office a degree of efficiency in management and economy of performance which has saved the taxpayers round sums of money each of the eight years he has held the position. Not only a fine peace officer but a brainy business man, he has been able to put that important part of the county's affairs upon a substantial footing, and has merited the high praise of the board of supervisors and the various grand juries that know of his work.

It is deplorable that the campaign being made to place another man into the office which Abbott now holds has been built up through falsehood and misrepresentation. It is difficult for the individual voter to make the investigations which would prove the falsity of the charges.

So far as Carmel is concerned, we know of Carl Abbott through his prompt and efficient service in our section when violations of the law have occurred, but have had little information of his management of the business affairs of the office and the jail. For that reason, the Pine Cone has made it a duty to investigate and determine, so that the people here may be informed.

There have been eight years of intelligent service in the sheriff's office since Abbott came in. Without bombast or plays to the gallery, without favoritism or misuse of authority, with a day-by-day care and caution, he has carried on in a public office as though he were handling a private business, and his own. He has been honest, and better, he has been efficient. He has made a sheriff such as we have always asked for, and seldom discovered.

The Pine Cone hopes for Carl H. Abbott another well-earned term in the office of sheriff, and congratulates him upon the record he has made through the two terms he has held this office. And it deplores an opposition campaign built upon misrepresentation of the facts.

NOT AN APOLOGY

The editorial reprinted last week from the Pacific Rural Press, a farm paper and magazine published in San Francisco, "Weather Forecast," has caused plenty of comment not only in Carmel, but in other sections of the state, where it has been reprinted. It represents an outside view of the ridiculous position in which Carmel has been placed by the activities of a few of its residents with pinky-red tendencies.

Ella Winter has invited statewide criticism. She has asked for it. Her propaganda here has been the cause of family disruption and grief, and in its appeal to the young and light minded, has menaced Carmel's homes. But she has not kept to her home town, where her personal popularity and the admiration of the people for Lincoln Steffens would have held back the criticism which she had earned, but she has herself, and through her youthful neophytes, gone farther and taken part in radical movements throughout the state. She has come to be considered a public enemy. Now she is reaping what she has sown, nor is the harvest an unsatisfactory one to her. She needs publicity, wants publicity, and the criticisms of what she would call a "capitalistic press" are all to her advantage.

One thing more. A small boy who does not receive at home the discipline and corrective measures that will hold him into the accepted lines of conduct laid down to give all of us a fair break, is bound to become a community affair. Great restraint has been shown for the young son of Ella Winter by the local authorities and the people at large. He has come to believe that because of his parentage, he is immune from punishment. That situation is unfair to him, and more unfair to the people who must live in his neighborhood. He, like his mother, by refusing the ordinary rules of conduct, lays himself open to public criticism. Unless and until his parents take him properly in hand, and give substantial restraint to his mischief, the Pine Cone will not consider him exempt from the discipline of community publicity. To those of the John Reed Club who object to this stand, we will claim the liberty of free speech, and a free press.

BEAUTY THERE IS ON EVERY BOUGH

Now is the evening settled down
In a dark hollow; plow and scythe,
And soil in crustless upturned brown,
Opened too freshly to the sky.

Are blotted out. Now rests the hand
Vein-nubbed in labor to the core;
It is not hard to understand
What joy there is in such a chore.

That hand shall callous, and grow lean
In service to an earth-stained plow:
Wisdom there is in living green,
Beauty there is on every bough.

—Claire Aven Thomson.

FORECAST

My heart within is gazing out
  Upon the chill and drizzling rain
With shivering plants and trees about
  Abandoned to a numbing pain
And churlish doubt.

The fields are heavy with the wet
  As is my sorrowed hope today,
And tear-drops form a rivulet
  That vainly seeks to wash away
The vague regret.

Why does the fog with cumbrous feet
  Persist in tramping every bloom
And let its freakish fingers beat
  A dull tatoo of etching gloom
Like mordant sleet?

And yet I feel before the night
  The sun will prove its precious art,
Will raze the cloud and bring the light
  And joy will touch my lonely heart
And make things right.

—Jack Greenberg.

I've known awareness that made my blood

I've stood taut with awareness.

I've torn my fingers on the rough edge

I've danced in the midst of sorrow.

I've known awareness . . .
I'm pleading with God
For numbness.

CHEAP MINDS AND LIBRARY BOOKS

We recommend to the consideration of the authorities, or to Company A, the person who marks up the library books. He is a menace to peace and quiet, and to the happiness of the reading public.

Why anyone with so few brains as to want to mark passages in a public library book, should have the idea that he could select passages worthy of marking is inconceivable. But that is his evident intention. He underscores with his pencil, or brackets in the margin, the sentences or paragraphs that appeal to his imbecilic mind. The selection is without taste or discrimination, and ruins the page for the subsequent readers.

Another public enemy blue pencils every reference to liquor in the books he reads. This idiot is a prolific reader, and has defaced scores of books he doesn't own, and shouldn't have been allowed to handle. It may be the work of a die-hard Eighteenth Amendment-er, but it is certainly the work of a moron. If found, the person responsible should be sent to a home for feeble minded.

It is sad enough to mark up your own books, but if you keep your library locked, and allow nobody the key, it's your own business. The public library is no place for your vagaries of taste. Let each reader find for himself the bright passages, or the wicked references to strong drink, without your directive markings. Keep your pencil in your pocket while reading the taxpayers' books.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

LAURA MAXWELL, Carmel artist, was recently watching a small bird that hopped gaily about the trunk of a raO4444444h about the trunk of one of the pines on Ocean avenue, when a man with several women about him stopped to admire the feathered visitor. He was rather a gorgeous young man, sartorially, quite the center of the admiring group, who evidently looked to him to tell them what kind of a bird this was. He did. A woodpecker, he said.

"Not quite," corrected the artist. "It's a sap-sucker."

"Look out, Mister!" came the shouted warning from a small boy who overheard.

ACCORDING to the Peninsula Herald, Mrs. Maxwell wants a moratorium of twenty years on babies, the idea being to let the world catch up with technocracy, or something. She doesn't go into details of how the moratorium will be made effective, but we suppose it must be through the "New Deal." The idea will probably be passed up to Professor Moley.

Had a whizz-bang in your car? Tear-gas isn't a circumstance to a whizz-bang for awfulness—Ask Ray Birch—or Officer Charles Guth.

Guth was taking a prisoner over to the county jail at Salinas when the whizz-bang went off. The sound is like an incoming 155 mm. shell, short fuse, with high explosive. The blast is followed by smoke fumes enough to cause a fire panic anywhere. That Guth ever found his prisoner after the debacle is because the prisoner was worse scared than Charles, and ran in the same direction.

Except for heart palpitations, and the danger of running one's self to death, there is no damage done by this latest industrial effort of the practical joker. The whizz-bang's bark is all it has. But that's plenty.

CAST OF SERRA DRAMA INCLUDES NOTED NAMES

The Serra Fiesta and Pageant will feature George Marion's drama "The Apostle of California" five nights and one matinee, and no finer cast has ever been assembled in this region to do honor to the historic name of Father Junipero Serra.

In order of appearance the actors will be Joseph McEldowney, Indian Herald; Frederick Burt, Chief of Esselenians; William E. Shepard, Medicine Man; John Sheridan, Indian Runner; Helen Ware, Califia; Peter O'Crotty, Friar Crespi; David Matzke, Commander Pedro Fages; George F. Marion, Junipero Serra; Oracle, Frank Sheridan; Lloyd Weer, Juan Bautista de Anza; Sibyl Leonard, Maria; June Delight, Solo Spanish Dancer; Juan and Josefina Garcia, Duo in Spanish Costume; and Zahrah Koepp, Solo Indian Dancer.

Characters not yet cast include Friar Palou, Friar Cavaller, Sergt. Ortega and Pedro Vincente. Many minor roles are being filled rapidly and over eighty dancers, singers and others will complete the cast.

Director Marion, author of the drama, and stellar actor in it, has connected with his name many outstanding eastern productions, such as the original "Merry Widow," "The Prince of Pilsen," George Ade's musical comedies and others equally important. In recent days he has among others, been in "Anna Christie," creating the character of the Captain, as well as being in numerous motion picture roles.

"It would seem," said one commentator, "that in the present pageant he has lavished full measure of his theatric resources, as if intending it to be the crowning achievement of his fifty-odd years of stagecraft."

FRANCES BOONE TO DANCE AT FOREST THEATER PLAY

An added attraction is announced to preceed the performance of "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" at the Forest Theatre this Friday and Saturday evenings. Frances Boone, who is a great granddaughter of the pathfinder, Daniel Boone, will give several medieval dances. She is head of the well known dancing school in Palo Alto.

A small dinner party was recently given by Betty Reynolds in honor of Sue and Tony Grou at the Reynolds home on San Antonio. Those present were: Sue and Tony Grou and Ted Watson, Bud Todd, and Dick Sears. The group adjourned to Del Monte for dancing, following the dinner.

Judge Fines Many Traffic Violators

Judge George Wood in city court heard a number of traffic cases this last week, none of which was serious.

Anna L. Gould, of Modesto, was charged with speeding and paid a fine of $10; Mrs. Edward Trout, of Los Angeles, arrested for passing a stop sign and driving without driver's license, paid $5; Fred Elkins, Jr., of Sacramento, was tagged for speeding, and for driving with a broken speedometer, and this cost him $10; Gerald L. Stout, of Fresno, had his speeding charge reduced to driving without due caution and paid $5; and James A. Horseburgh, of Stanford University, was found speeding to the penalty of $10.

Adolph Bohm, of San Francisco, was cited for driving and parking on the wrong side of the street, but was dismissed with a warning. Joseph Murphy, of Hayward, is in correspondence with the Judge about passing a stop sign; Fred Justice, of Seaside, was warned for passing a car on the crest of the hill; and Denby Jones, of Fresno, will appear and tell why he thought it a joke to drive his car on a Dolores Street sidewalk.

OLD CABIN INN IS OPEN AGAIN

One of the most enthusiastic people in Carmel today is Mrs Anna Sheets who re-opened the Old Cabin Inn for business this week. Mrs. Sheets owner of the Tea room announces that she has employed a staff of cuisinary experts of long standing and she promises that the service and food will be unsurpassed.

The Old Cabin Inn has been one of Carmel's pioneer tea rooms. For many years the quaint restaurant was owned by Mossie Hunkins and enjoyed phenomenal success. With Miss Hunkins eventual decision to take up ranching it was purchahed by Mrs. Sheets, but has remained as a unique and popular eating place. The Old Cabin Inn is located on Camino Real just south of Ocean Avenue.
